

ABSTRACT

5

Disclosed is a cylindrical piston press foot mounted on a coupling element having a part with an enlarged diameter connected through a part with reduced diameter to the end of a piston rod. The device is useful in injection devices , mespecially devices by which a liquid medication is apportioned in individual doses from a cartridge.

10